Managing the Flexible Workplace

As more and more Federal workers take advantage of flexible work arrangements, managers and supervisors are faced with a unique challenge of overseeing a mix of remote workers, teleworkers and onsite staff without sacrificing performance. This seminar addresses best practices, strategies and methods for maintaining high performance regardless of where an employee sits.

- Understand the expectations of the administration and Congress for alternative work arrangements in the Federal Government.
- Explore strategies for maintaining performance whether employees are onsite or offsite, and learn guidelines and procedures for establishing flexible arrangements in your workplace.
- Develop specific plans for applying learned techniques to your workplace.

Maintain High Performance and Achieve Results in the Nontraditional Federal Workplace

Through instruction and sharing best practices, this seminar offers effective methods for supporting high performance regardless of employee location, without making more work for you as the supervisor of these individuals.
